

Glacial Shard

Weapon (longsword), rare (requires attunement)

These swords are only crafted in the Abyssal Forge, deep under the ocean. There sunken spirits are infused within the metal of the blade, turning it as cold as death. It is said that these weapons were crafted to oppose the power of Flame Tongues.

Frozen Death. Your weapon seeks death. You gain a +1 bonus to attack and damage rolls made with this weapon, which can deal cold damage instead of slashing damage (specify before the attack roll). It deals an additional 1d6 of cold damage to any target it hits.

Spiritual Resilience. As a bonus action you unleash the spirits held within the blade. Their howling presence surrounds you like ghostly flames and reinforces you for 1 minute. For the duration you cannot be charmed or frightened, and cold damage you deal with the blade ignores resistances. If you are charmed or frightened when you activate the blade, the effect is suspended for the duration. Once used, this ability can't be used again until the next dawn.

Superior Glacial Shard

Weapon (longsword), very rare (requires attunement)

Superior Glacial Shards were carefully purified using the tears of a Luminous Whale, empowering the original blade.

Frozen Death. Your weapon seeks death. You gain a +2 bonus to attack and damage rolls made with this weapon, which can deal cold damage instead of slashing damage (specify before the attack roll). It deals an additional 1d10 of cold damage to any target it hits. You have resistance to cold damage while attuned to this sword.

Spiritual Resilience. As a bonus action you unleash the spirits held within the blade. Their howling presence surrounds you like ghostly flames and reinforces you for 1 minute. For the duration you cannot be charmed or frightened, and cold damage you deal with the blade ignores resistances and immunities. If you are charmed or frightened when you activate the blade, the effect is suspended for the duration. Once used twice, this ability can't be used again until the next dawn.
