

ARE YOU SMARTER THAN A 1 YEAR OLD?

“The mind-mixing brain-drain gameshow of the year!”

Introduction

BecomingBabyAgain

Robert sat nervously in the TV studios waiting room. He had been a huge fan of the gameshow since it is first series and after plucking up the courage to apply, they accepted him as a contestant!

The premise of the show was quite simple really. Just like any other TV gameshow, you had to correctly answer a set of questions in order to progress to the next round. The player with the least amount of points in the round was eliminated and sent home. However, this show had an unusual and exciting twist. Every question that you got wrong, a little part of your brain drained away! Robert was sure it was just some clever editing along with some acting, after all he had seen episodes were someone got through to the very final without being affected at all!

He looked around at the other people in the waiting room. Most of them didn't look too much like a threat. He'd even overheard a couple of the girls talking about how they didn't care too much about winning anything, they just wanted to be on TV. There was one quite nerdy looking guy who seemed like fierce competition. Even now he was studying a book rather than staring at a phone or chatting like everyone else. There were 6 people in total including Robert, 3 boys and 3 girls. After along wait a woman brandishing a clipboard entered the room and announced herself as the floor manager:

"Okay, Good afternoon guys! I'm Julie the floor manager. Now I'm sure you all know how the game works and are all super fans! But I'm just going to run over the premise once more. When you get into the studio there are 6 little podiums for you to stand behind in a boy-girl-boy-girl order. Then when the game starts the host will come on, have a little banter with the crowd and a little conversation about who you are, where you come from blah blah. Then, the questions start! You get a point for each correct answer. For every wrong answer, your podium will light up red and a little brain drain will happen."

"Yeah right" thought Robert still in disbelief

The player with the least point at the end of the round is sent home...with whatever they have left in their head!" she chuckled. "And at the end of each round we have the mind-mixer which will add or change a few things in your head. Good Luck!"

She shepherded the group out onto the studio floor where they organised themselves in podium order after an audience round of applause, ready for the game to begin...